

SOMMAIRE

Thomas M. OSBORNE, Thomas, Scotus, and Ockham on the Object of Hope	1
Sylvain ROUDAUT, The Definition of Contrariety and the Classification of Forms in Dietrich of Freiberg's De Natura Contrariorum	27
Chris SCHABEL, Ockham, the Principia of Holcot and Wodeham, and the Myth of the Two-Year Sentences Lecture at Oxford	59
Aurora PANZICA, Commenter les Météorologiques à l'Université de Cracovie: de l'assimilation des modèles parisiens à la naissance d'une tradition polonaise	103
Diana DI SEGNI, Pico della Mirandola, Maimonides, and Magic	193

SOMMAIRE

A Note from the Editorial Board	213
C.-F. KIM, Giles of Rome on Esse and Essence as Duae Res. .	227
 Special Issue: Theories of Mental Being in the Later Middle Ages (Edited by Alexandra ANISIE, Russell L. FRIEDMAN, Jenny PELLETIER, and Maria SOROKINA)
A. ANISIE, Theories of Mental Being in the Later Middle Ages: An Introduction.	259
F. BENEVICH, Representational Beings: Suhrawardī (d. 1191) and Avicenna's Mental Existence	289
G. PINI, Duns Scotus on What Is in the Mind: A Roadmap .	319
C. GIRARD, The Realm of entia rationis and Its Boundaries: Hervaeus Natalis on Objective Being	349
M. KLEIN, Mental Gaze and Presence: Hervaeus Natalis, Peter Auriol, and John Buridan on Objects of Cognition	371
M. PICKAVÉ, Francis of Meyronnes on Beings of Reason: A First Approach.	393
M. SOROKINA, Numbering the Divine Persons: Mental Exis- tence of Numbers in Duns Scotus, Henry of Harclay, and Peter Auriol.	417
G. CIOLA, Hic sunt chimaerae? On Absolutely Impossible Signifi- cates and Referents in Mid-14th-Century Nominalist Logic. .	441
Reviews.	469

Table des noms propres	485
Table des manuscrits	493
Sommaire	495