

BRILL

METHOD AND THEORY IN THE STUDY
OF RELIGION 29 (2017) 509-511

METHOD
& THEORY in the
STUDY OF RELIGION
brill.com/mtsr

Contents

VOLUME 29, NO. 1

ARTICLES

Can Religion be Explained?: The Role of Absorption in Various Religious Phenomena 1-30

Johannes Bronkhorst

Jacques Lacan and the Theory of the Religious Subject 31-56

Dmitry Uzlaner

Belief and Acceptance for the Study of Religion 57-87

Bosco B. Bae

DISCUSSION

Colloquium Response: More 'Theory as Explanation' Anyone? 89-94

Paul Kenny

Buttering Bread on Both Sides: Response to Paul Kenny 95-99

Patrick Hart

VOLUME 29, NO. 2

ARTICLES

"The Happy Side of Babel": Radical Plurality, Narrative Fiction and the Philosophy of Religion 101-132

Mikel Burley

Transcendental Materialism as a Theoretical Orientation to the Study of Religion 133-154

Thomas Lynch

Strange Bedfellows?: David Brog, Josephus, and the Rhetoric of Contested Allegiances 155-180

Sheldon Steen

Appropriating Islam as a Matrix: Young Muslim Volunteers blurring the Lines between Sacred and Mundane 181-204

William Barylo

VOLUME 29, NO. 3

ARTICLES

Islamophobia Reconsidered: Approaching Emotions, Affects, and Historical Layers of Orientalism in the Study of Religion 205-220

Lorenz Trein

Overlapping Mental Magisteria: Implications of Experimental Psychology for a Theory of Religious Belief as Misattribution 221-267

Luke Galen

Categorization, Collection, and the Construction of Continuity: 1 Enoch and 3 Enoch in and beyond "Apocalypticism" and "Mysticism" 268-311

Annette Yoshiko Reed

VOLUME 29, NOS. 4-5

PART 1: DISCUSSION ON NEO-PERENNIALISM

"Yes, ... but ...": The Neo-Perennialists 313-326

Craig Martin

The Place of Subjectivity in the Academic Study of Religion: A Response to Craig Martin 327-333

Kevin Schilbrack

Religion and Belief After the Turn to Power: A Response to Craig Martin 334-339

Stephen S. Bush

Comparison and the Spectre of Perennialism: A Reply to Craig Martin 340-346

Jason Blum

Rejoinder 347-351
Craig Martin

PART 2: SHOOK-BARRET DISCUSSION

- Are People Born to be Believers, or are Gods Born to be Believed? 353-373
John R. Shook
- On Naturalness, Innateness, and God-beliefs: A Reply to Shook 374-386
Justin L. Barrett
- God Belief as an Innate Aspect of Human Nature: A Response to John Shook and Questions for Justin Barrett 387-399
Julie J. Exline, David F. Bradley, Alex Uzdevins, & Nick Stauner
- Studying Religion and Trying Theological Applications 400-410
Lluís Oviedo
- Some Comments on the Alleged Innateness of Religion 411-421
Benjamin Grant Purzycki
- Reply to Commentaries on "Are People Born to be Believers, or are Gods Born to be Believed?" 422-428
John R. Shook
- Reflections on the Debate: What Does Philosophy Have to Do with the Cognitive Study of Religion? 429-442
Aku Visala

PART 3: PEDAGOGY

- Reconstruction, Critical Accommodation or Business as Usual? Challenges of Criticisms of the World Religions Paradigm to the Design of Teaching Programmes in the Study of Religions 443-458
Wanda Alberts
- Locating Value in the Study of Religion 459-478
Richard Newton
- A Challenge for the Academic Study of Religion: No Such Thing as 'Sacred' Cows, Right? 479-493
Blair Alan Gadsby
- Forming Judgements and Contributing to Debates: Religion and Contemporary Society 494-508
Lucas Carmichael